A YOUNG LIFE WRECKED.

How Frank Wellner Was Dragged Down to the Depths of Misery by Opium.

Two young men were walking down the Bowery in New York one day. One of them was scarcely more than a boy. The other was older in years and experience. They passed a Chinese basement laundry and the young man remarked:

"That's an opium joint, isn't it?"

"Yes," his companion replied. "Have you ever hit the pipe?" No? Then you have missed something. Come down stairs and try it."

The boy had heard a good many weird stories about opium and pipe fiends and there was a piece of the sensational about the proposed adventure. He stepped down and tried one of the long bamboo reeds through which the drug is smoked. He slept heavily; he dreamed delicious dreams; he thought he was in paradise and he awoke headachy and penitent.

He was penitent all the next day, but along toward night he began to think of his sensations, his leap into the atmosphere of soft lights and hazy figures with more pleasure and even the thought of his waking dullness was less painful than it had been that morning. The boy suddenly reflected: "It's gaining the better of me already. I mustn't go there to-night," and he didn't go — not that night.

But he went later on and again and again, and slowly the dreams began to fade away and gradually the fumes of the cooking opium affected him less and less. He tried whisky and found it did him little good. Then he went to laudanum, still drinking liquor in greater and greater quantities. The laudanum gave him relief, but its course was like the opium — it satisfied him at first, but eventually only made his appetite worse, and the more he took of it the more he wanted. Then he adopted the last resort of the "fiend." Finding that the drug smoked or eaten was slow and unsatisfactory in its results, he took to the hypodermic syringe. And the other day the result came when, wild-eyed and distraught in mind, he sought refuge in Justice Kersten's court from imaginary conspirators who, he thought in his undermined brain, were banded together to take his life. His mother stood beside him and soothed him when he raved madly at the plan to assassinate him. Twenty-three years old and an opium victim!

This was the story of young F. L. Wellner, who sat behind the grated window in the rooms of the county jail devoted to the insane yesterday and restlessly shifted about to ease his wretched body. He is an opium madman, his body is covered with sores from the incisions made by the syringe, and he has the delirium tremens. And these are not his only misfortunes. He has been married three times.

Twenty-three years old and an opium victim!

Twenty-three years old and three times married!

He was married the first time when he was 17 years old—a year before he took to frequenting the dens of New York. His wife was divorced from him. He married again, and was divorced a second time. Then he turned around and remarried his first wife, who now lives in New York with her child.

His mother is the wife of Harry Thomas, the well known singer. Wellner was a telegraph operator and stenographer, and a good one. He earned $100 a month and sent $150 of it for whisky. The rest went for the necessities of life—morphine and laudanum, and for a few luxuries like food and clothes. When he was arrested he was taking five doses of five grains each a day.

Skin Grafting.

A few months ago Charles Lanning, son of Stephen Lanning, who runs a dairy farm near Washington, Warren county, N. J., was attacked with phlegmonous erysipelas. He was confined to his bed for ten weeks. The disease destroyed all his left arm to the shoulder. Great care was necessary to prevent blood poisoning. For a time all hopes of his recovery were given up, but by careful nursing he was finally enabled to leave his bed with his arm in an ulcerated condition. Dr. Frank M. Cook, of Washington, proposed to try skin grafting and made arrangements for the experiment. About two weeks ago the patient, accompanied by his sister Maggie, Charles Smith, a school teacher, John W. Scott, Moses Thorp and "Mat" Nixon went to Dr. Cook's office in Washington, where the operation was performed. The doctor began by taking the first piece of skin from the patient, when each of the above mentioned friend persons submitted to have from two to ten pieces of skin cut from their bodies and transplanted on the ulcerated arm. About 100 pieces in all were laid on the raw, quivering flesh, and the arm bandaged. The bandage was not opened until four days had elapsed when to the surprise of all the pieces were found to be firmly adhering and healing nicely. At present the arm is pretty well healed and promises to become a useful member again.

Tarratine Indians in Maine.

The remnant of the once great Tarratine tribe of Indians, who live on an island in the Penobscot, twelve miles above Bangor, Me., are perhaps more civilized and adopt more generally the customs of the white man than any other tribe. They live in neat dwellings of their own, farm, work in the woods and drive logs on the river, earning good wages, and dress as well or better than many white laborers. Sometimes the dusky damsels of the tribe come out in resplendent toggery, as happened the other night when there was a big wedding on the island. Joseph Shay and Jennie Coley were the happy couple, and the bride appeared radiant in a robe of delicate blue brocade satin, trimmed with cream Spanish lace and cream satin ribbons, while one of the wedding guests wore peacock blue surah silk and satin, with overdress of Oriental lace. The wedding reception was followed by a ball, at which many handsome costumes were seen.

The newest joke of the day is for one man to ask another "Have you seen the new coin—the one and three eighths?" Of course the answer is "No," whereupon the propounder of the question produces a new five-cent nickel and points to the date—1883, which is the "one and three eights" and the point of the joke.

MISCELLANEOUS.

EVERY NIGHT I SCRATCHED

Until the Skin was Raw, Body Covered with scales like spots of mortar. Cured by the Cuticura Remedies.

I am going to tell you of the extraordinary change your Cuticura Remedies performed on me. About the first of April last I noticed some red pimples like coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of it until some time later on, when it began to look like spots of mortar spotted on, and which came off in layers, accompanied with itching. I would scratch every night until I was raw, and then the next night the scales being formed meanwhile were scratched off again. In vain did I consult all the doctors in the country, but without aid. After giving up all hopes of recovery, I happened to see an advertisement in the newspaper about your Cuticura Remedies, and purchased them from my druggist and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scaly eruptions gradually dropped off and disappeared one by one, and have been fully cured. I had the disease thirteen months before I began using the Cuticura Remedies, and in four or five weeks was entirely cured. My disease was eczema and psoriasis. I recommended the Cuticura Remedies to all in my vicinity, and I know of a great many who have taken them and thank me for the knowledge of them, especially mothers who have babes with scaly eruptions on their heads and bodies. I cannot express in words the thanks to you for what the Cuticura Remedies have been to me. My body was covered with scales, and I was an awful spectacle to behold. Now my skin is as nice and clear as a baby's.

MONDAY.....APRIL 23, 1888

Fred Hart's Republican says it is a crying shame that mere partisanship should be allowed to deprive a people of their rights. Here is the Territory of Dakota knocking at the doors of the Union for years, and with an undoubted right of admission and its interests suffering through lack of Statehood, and a Democratic House continually slapping the door in her face. We warrant that were Dakota likely to be a Democratic State the Democrats of the House would be eager to admit her, and a Republican Senate would ignore petty partisanship and recognize the right and justice of her claim. The Democrats have for years been trying to sneak Utah into the Union, and have made all kinds of wicked compacts and disgraceful bargains with the Mormans, and, were it not for the check of the Senate and an overwhelming public sentiment, would admit the Territory to the Union to-morrow. Were the Senate as well as the House Democratic, a Democratic House would boldly fly in the face of that public sentiment and admit Utah to the Union while refusing entrance to Dakota. When the time arrives that the Democratic party will subordinate its intense partisanship and sectionalism to sound public policy, it will be entitled to the name it now falsely claims, that of the great National party, but that time will never arrive, because the Democratic party is not built that way.

LISTEN to the tribute of Judge C. C. Goodwin of the Salt Lake Tribune to the memory of ex-Senator Roscoe Conkling. It is indeed a poem in prose:

Gather near, Stalwarts! The most august grave that ever the men of the Empire State hallowed for one of their own sons, is prepared and ready to receive its occupant. The April buds are bursting; the maples and elms are donning their garniture of green; the air is heavily freighted with one incense of spring; nature smiles—as might a loving friend while watching a mother lulling her tired child to sleep—as the earth opens her merciful breast to receive and hush in everlasting rest her tired son. On that soil he grew up; on that soil he learned the first lessons of labor, of patriotism and truth; on that soil he caught the first inspiration that only royal brains and hearts without reproach have a right to rule; on that soil he won his first triumphs; when he went away it was but to advance in worth and to achieve high renown; when he returned there was not a speck on, or dent in the shield of his perfect uprightness. It is most meet that his last sleep shall be where every memory of his life will be an inspiration forever to the children and children's children of his old neighbors and friends.

JAY GOULD is a real interesting study now-a-days. For years, says an exchange, he seemed to have the hide of a rhinoceros; no matter how much he was abused he kept right along, busy, apparently, in minding his own business, and executing no revenges, except by catching now and then one of his enemies in a deal and squeezing the financial breath out of him. But since his return from Europe he has been slashing right and left, rushing into print and calling names worse than a fisherwoman. He presents a wonderful psychological study. What changes are going on in his soul? Is he going to develop into an angel, or the other chap? Are the present manifestations simply the symptoms of a radical change in his nature? Is he being led up to the point of gobbling some overland road, or is he about to turn monk and found a monastery?

EVERYBODY will be sorry to read of the burning of Senator Stanford's stables, and the killing of his beautiful colts. The man who could set fire to a stable and burn up those innocent animals would fire a convent or hospital. The money loss to the Senator is of course nothing that will cause him a moment's thought, but he will grieve over his pets. He is childless and he has not as much faith in men as he had once; but his colts have never failed him; he loves them very much and will not permit them to be whipped; he will not even allow noisy talking around them to alarm them, and he will be greatly worried that some that were most full of promise should be killed by a human fiend, and the public will share his regrets.

THE San Francisco Republican sarcastically says: Pretty nearly every man in the State of Nevada who isn't fit for anything else is being mentioned as a candidate for Congress.

A DREARY PROSPECT.

The Varying Condition of the German Emperor.

LONDON, April 22.—A dispatch from Berlin states that the Emperor's fever has abated. After midnight he slept, but his sleep was broken occasionally by fits of coughing. Light-colored pus continues to be discharged. Yesterday the doctors administered arsenic in order to induce sleep. The Emperor afterwards saw his entire family.

BERLIN, April 22.—The North German Gazette says: Although the Emperor did not leave his bed yesterday, he attended to the affairs of state. He did not sleep. In the afternoon he took food in satisfactory quantities.

The following bulletin was issued at noon: The Emperor passed a less satisfactory night last night. His fever is now somewhat higher than it was yesterday morning. His respiration is fairly easy. His general condition is not as good as it was yesterday.

LONDON, April 22.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Berlin, timed 3:12 P. M., says: "The Emperor has been in a critical condition since last night. His death is possible at any moment. He is perfectly resigned."

BERLIN, April 22.—The Emperor's condition is better this evening. His temperature is lower than it was in the morning and his breathing easier. He coughs less frequently and the discharge of pus does not cause exhaustion. Nevertheless, his condition is worse, showing symptoms of pyæmia.

The Crisis in France.

PARIS, April 22.—Boulangerism has met a check in Marseilles. A meeting addressed there by Deputy Laur unanimously passed a resolution against the candidacy of Boulanger in other elections and calling on him to define his position.

PARIS, April 21.—On the reassembling of the Chamber of Deputies today a committee was appointed to consider the question of revising the Constitution. The committee consists of eleven members. Four oppose revision, two are in favor of immediate revision, and five desire revision, but are willing to accept the proposal of the Cabinet to postpone action upon the matter.

There was a renewal of the conflicts between students and Boulangerists to-night. The police charged on the rioters, and in the scuffles that ensued many persons were injured, some seriously. The Boulangerists assembled at many points, intending to march to the Boulevard St. Michael. The police dispersed them and prevented them from carrying out their idea. The city became quiet at 11 o'clock.

The committee having in charge General Boulanger's political affairs have issued a statement that the General will remain the Deputy for the Department of Nord.

Count de Lesseps has written a letter to the Chamber of Deputies urging the necessity of discussing without delay the proposed lottery loan to be issued by the Panama Canal Company.

In the lobby of the chamber to-day groups of deputies charged the Prefect of Police with ill treating persons who participated in the demonstrations against General Boulanger while showing leniency toward the General's supporters. The Prefect denied and asked leave to raise the question in the House.

Bull Fighting to be Tabooed.

CITY OF MEXICO, April 22.—General Gonzalez, formerly President of the Republic and now Governor of the State of Guanajuato, has taken a bold and decisive step in decreeing the suppression of bull-fighting in that State. He declares that the sport is demoralizing and is leading people into habits of wastefulness and disorder, and the employment of large sums for constructing bull-rings and maintaining them is entirely improper in the present state of civilization.

He declares that educational interests and manufacturing enterprises suffer from the use of so much money in this barbarous sport, and that the habits of public order and economy are destroyed by it.

Accordingly, he orders the summary prohibition of bull-fighting in his State.

A Female Rip Van Winkle.

BUFFALO (N. Y.), April 22.—Emma Althouse, a young woman of Attica, N. Y., who has been subject to trances of long duration for some time, awoke to-day after a sleep of thirty-three days. When told of her protracted sleep she evinced much surprise. During her sleep her grandfather, residing at Mumford, Ky., died. When Emma awoke to-day she informed the family physician of the fact, but she could not tell how she came to know it. While in the trance she has taken no food but a small quantity of milk. She does not experience any desire for nourishment.

The Pacific Cable.

MONTREAL, April 21.—A cablegram from London says: The impression prevails that the British annexation of Fanning, Christmas and Penryn islands in the Pacific indicates that a British survey, which has always been regarded as essential to establish the practicability of a Pacific ocean cable, is about to be undertaken.

It is alleged that apart from the commercial value of the cable, the Imperial government realizes that it would serve to bring the several British naval stations within reach of each other.

The Boom.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The Sun this morning publishes six columns from its special correspondent in California, telling of the boom and the great advantages of the State.

DR. PRENTICE.

Return of the Eminent Specialist. After an Extended Visit to the Leading Hospitals of Europe.

We are pleased to chronicle the safe arrival and return to America of Dr. Prentice. Less than one year ago the Doctor visited Reno and Virginia City. The remarkable surgical operations and the successful treatment of cases, previously considered incurable, which the Doctor effected while here, are fresh in the memory of all—have gained for him a reputation seldom attained in his profession. It is a well-known fact that Dr. Prentice invariably devotes one year in three in an extended visit to the hospitals of Europe. Notwithstanding that he was having an enormous practice, and earnestly solicited to prolong his stay here, he was reluctantly compelled to shorten his visit and make his customary visit to the Old World. He promised, however, to return, and is now on his way to Nevada. He visited the leading hospitals of Ireland, Scotland, England, Germany, Austria, Belgium, France, the Principality of Monaco, Italy, etc. He assures his many patients that he has spared neither time nor money to acquire all the latest methods and scientific treatment used in the Old World. He will arrive from the East and go direct to Virginia City, where he will treat all cases of strabismus, or cross-eyes, hemorrhoids or piles, stammering and the many ills for which he is renowned in effecting permanent cures. His visit to Virginia City will commence on the 20th of April, for one week, after which he will return to Reno.

The Fashionably Bred Standard Trotting Stallion

MAJESTY!

DESCRIPTION: Color, dark bay with one white hind foot; 15¾ hands high, weighs 1,050 pounds, fine form and action, very gentle disposition, sound in every respect; two years old on the 8th of May, 1888; well broken to drive; has never been trained.

PEDIGREE—Sire, "Sterling," by Egmont, he by Belmont, sire of Nutwood, Goldsmith Maid and other fast ones. Dam, Lady Baldwin, by the Moor, dam of Bay Rose, 2:29.

This combination of two of the fastest strains of blood this country has ever produced cannot fail to trot fast, and be one of the most popular breeding stallions to be found. This colt has grown very fast, and is large for his age, but well-proportioned and symmetrical, and has not been worked for speed on account of his rapid growth. He shows enough speed to warrant the belief that he will maintain the high opinion we have of him. The first time he was shown at the California State Fair he took the premium for the

Best Standard-Bred Trotting Colt

In the Sweepstakes. This colt is offered for the sum of $600, which is lower by 50 per cent. than any colt of eqnal breeding ever brought that we know of.

The Eagle Valley water question is likely to be opened up again in some form or other, but it will do good. KILLED BY A RACEHORSE.

Theo. Winters' Colt Flies the Track. With Fatal Results.

A fatal accident occurred at the Bay District track, San Francisco, on Saturday, during the progress of a race. The following account is taken from the Examiner:

As the horses entered the homestretch for the run to the wire Theodore Winters' colt Don Jose, ridden by Joe Courtney, drew out of the rush and took the lead. At the eighth pole he seemed a winner, but at this point Hamilton, who had the mount on Haggin's Trade Mark, made his run and closed rapidly on the leader. Courtney took in the situation and commenced punishing. The horse bolted to avoid punishment, but Courtney got him going again. At the drawgate he again attempted to use the whip. At the time he was riding with a loose rein, and did not have the horse well in hand. Along the fence of the stretch was a crowd of men, gazing intently at the approaching horses and never dreaming that there was any danger of the horses jumping over the fence upon them.

When Courtney hit the colt a stinging blow on the flank he jumped away from it to avoid further punishment and leaped over the fence, striking Sydney Marsh, a bystander, full in the chest and throwing him down. The back of Marsh's head struck upon the hard track. Horse and rider fell over on Marsh, and the animal in his endeavors to arise struck him frequent vicious blows with his steel-plated hoofs.

Courtney was fortunate in getting his feet out of the stirrups and had a miraculous escape, as he sustained only a few slight bruises about the body.

As soon as the judges saw that a man was hurt they rang the bell and called for a doctor. Coroner Stanton, who was attending the races, responded and after examining the man pronounced his injuries probably fatal.

Chief Crowley and Captain Lees, who were in attendance, immediately procured a stretcher and the unconcious man was conveyed to the dining-room of the hotel, where it was found that Marsh was suffering from concussion of the brain, superinduced by a fracture at the base of the skull. His body was paralyzed from the neck down, and his ankle badly broken.

Coroner Stanton hypodermically injected some brandy into the patient, but it had but little effect. He opened his eyes and muttered: "Oh, my God! Can't you help me?"

Splints were procured and the broken ankle was reduced, but the operation had scarcely been performed before Marsh closed his eyes and died without a struggle.

The deceased was a son of Professor Marsh, the music teacher of this city, and lived with his wife, whom he married last September, on Hyde and Filbert streets.

He was bookkeeper for Captain Sennett, the stevedore, and was also interested in the ship-chandlery firm of Roberts & Marsh.

The Coroner gave the friends of the deceased permission to remove the remains to his late home.

The inquest on the body will be held to-morrow.

The accident was similar to one which occurred in Stockton at the last fair held at that place, resulting in the death of the promising young jockey Oscar Nickerson, and the serious injury of the well-known turfman, Fred Collier.

The Belleview House.

On May 15th D. Kaiser of the Ormsby House, Carson, will throw open to the public the recently completed Belleview House, at Sugar Pine Point, Lake Tahoe. The location is the most charming of any on the lake, and the fact that the house is managed by Mr. Kaiser is a sufficient guarantee that even the most fastidious epicure will be satiated. The tourist on reaching this resort can choose three modes of living, the fashionable life at the hotel, the quiet family retirement of the cottage or the camping abandon of the tent. In addition to the cottages near the hotel, spacious canvas tents will be furnished those guests who care to enjoy the freedom and fun of "camping out" and will be under the management of the Belleview Hotel, with a scale of charges in accordance with the accommodation furnished. Thus the enjoyments of a week or month at Tahoe are placed within the means of all.

A Rich Strike.

The Genoa Courier reports that Prof. Norrie, the divining-rod expert, has discovered a very rich gold mine in Red Canyon district. He says the ledge is only twenty-five feet from the surface, and is so certain of its richness that he has procured a pick and shovel and is sinking a shaft to develop the mine. All the land in the immediate vicinity has been located, principally by men employed on T. B. Rickey's ranch, who seem to think Norrie will surely uncover a bonanza at the depth named.

The Twilight-Quartette Minstrels

The above named company was organized in Reno last week by the young men of the town who propose to give an entertainment in the course of two or three weeks. The company is composed of about twenty young men, and as they are rehearsing diligently, they will, no doubt, give a fine performance. There will be a grand rehearsal tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Nevada Theater, and each and every member is requested to be present.

Attention, Firemen!

Last night a woman who lives at the house of Mercedes Berega in Carson dropped upon the sidewalk coincidently with the report of a pistol. We are informed this morning that the woman was drunk and fired at herself and missed the mark, the bullet taking effect in the side of the house instead of herself.

Oroville Register: Hon. C. S. Young of the Rio Bonito Colony is talked of in Nevada as a candidate for Congress. Mr. Young makes his home in Reno, where he is part owner of the Reno GAZETTE and is therefore familiar with the needs of the sage brush State. If elected, he would work with much energy and zeal for the best interests of Nevada.

Michael Regan, until recently a machinist at the Reduction Works, died on Saturday last. He has been suffering for some time with consumption, which malady was the cause of his death. Deceased was a brother of James Regan, the well-known Reno machinist. The funeral took place at 4 o'clock today from the Catholic church.

The Great Dexter Dead.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Dexter, the famous trotter, died this morning at the stable of Robert Bonner, in this city. He was 30 years old. He was the greatest trotter of his day, and was the first horse to trot a mile in 2:17¼.

THE PUBLIC LANDS.

An Important Decision Regarding Their Use.

The suit brought by the Promontory Stock Company against John S. Houtz and others, which has been mentioned before, came up in the Third District Court yesterday morning. The Promontory Company had purchased a large tract of railroad land in Box Elder county, the even numbered sections extending a distance of forty miles north and south and thirty-six miles east and west, thus being owned by them, whereas the others remained public domain. In this area is found about 350,000 acres of government land. The sheep men claimed the right to herd their sheep on the public domain, as well as the privilege of passing over the company's lands in so doing. The company was unable to fence their land, except singly, each section having a separate fence, as they would otherwise inclose the whole. There being no way whereby the sheep men could be kept from these lands, the stock company sought an injunction forbidding the sheep men to trespass, which would virtually be forbidding them the use of the government land for grazing purposes.

The facts in the case were reviewed by Judge Zane. He stated that the question was simply this: Do the facts alleged present a case in which the court should issue an injunction? Would it be equitable to do so? He then reviewed the effects, should the injunction be granted. The plaintiffs admit that the Government will not permit the inclosure of its lands and yet they ask for the fencing of 350,000 acres of Government land by an injunction. Sheep men would not pass from one section of the public domain to another without trespassing on plaintiffs' lands. They would, therefore, be debarred from the use of this land, while the plaintiffs would secure the use of not only their own lands, but the public domain inside this tract of 40 miles by 36, only half of which was owned by plaintiff. The public who may travel that way would be forced to pass around this block, 36 miles, if traveling from north to south, or 40 miles, if traveling from east to west.

The rights of one party could not be given without infringing upon the rights of others, and as the company fully understood the situation at the time of purchase, they could not now deprive the public the use of 350,000 acres of public domain, and appropriate it to themselves. Therefore, the injunction was denied.—Ogden Standard.

A WORK OF ART.

Jewett Adams' Picture in the State Capital.

The portrait of Jewett W. Adams, ordered painted by the State, is now finished, says the Carson Appeal, and hangs in the Gubernatorial room. The picture was painted by Oscar Kunath, of San Francisco, and is by all odds the finest portrait in the Capitol building, if not in the State.

It cost $480, but the picture of John Mackay by Cabanel of Paris is not one whit its superior, although costing $3,000.

Mr. Adams had the selection of the artist, and he certainly made a good one.

The attitude is an easy sitting posture, the clothes negligently disposed, and the whole has the air that the subject is not sitting for a picture at all.

The likeness is perfect, and the right arm hanging down from the arm of the chair is a study in itself. The velvet plush on the arm of the chair is an extraordinary effect, and in fact every minute detail is conscientiously worked out, and the picture stands forth from the canvas like a living reality. It is superior to any painting ever hung in the Capitol.

Live Stock Licenses.

Bodie Miner: After much exciting debate, many petitions, a great deal of bottonholing, and things, the Supervisors have changed Ordinance No. 22 so as to let the license stand on horned cattle, take it entirely off horses, and raising it to 7 1-2 cents on sheep. We are informed that all cattlemen, both domestic and imported, express themselves as perfectly satisfied with this; and in fact many of them who "happened" to be in Bridgeport at the time applied for their license on cattle at once. Unless the object of the Supervisors was to place the license on sheep so high as to make the driving of outside sheep into this county for grazing purposes only, prohibitory, 7 1-2 cents on that class of animals if too much. If sheep are kept out, however, it will render the grazing grounds of Mono so much more valuable proportionately. Some men who have not yet worn out their pencils, have finally run up the number of cattle driven in here every year to graze to as high as 28,000 head. Captain J. L. C. Sherwin testified before the Board, while the matter was under consideration, that last year he collected toll on 10,000 head of horned cattle driven in from Inyo county alone.

According to the Phœnix, Arizona, Gazette, 20,000 head of beef cattle were carried out of Arizona during the year 1887 by the Southern Pacific Railroad, nearly all of which went to California. The cattlemen of this territory, says the Gazette, have been enriched from the Golden State the past year upwards of $600,000, money paid for choice beef.

Another Hint to Nevada.

DURANGO, Col., April 21.—The great Montezuma irrigating tunnel was completed yesterday. This tunnel is over one mile long and runs under one of the ranges of mountains composing the Rockies, and with 50 miles of canal will convey the waters of the Dolores river over the richest agricultural valley in Colorado. Over 200,000 acres of land will be reclaimed by this great enterprise.

Unlike any other part of the town, this addition faces the beautiful Truckee River, and Riverside avenue is certain to become the fashionable driveway of the country. The streets are 80 feet wide, while Riverside and Keystone avenues are intended to be 100 feet in width. All alleys are 20 feet wide. The soil is a rich gravelly loam, and susceptible of the highest state of cultivation. Being situated as it is, it is more exempt from fire than any other section. The regular lots are 50x140 feet. The sewerage is perfect.

Before buying elsewhere, Parties will do well to look at these Lots.

THE UNLUCKY OPAL.

Relating the Misfortunes Following Temporary Possession of the Fatal Gem.

"About four weeks ago a gentleman was stopping with us from Mexico. He had with him a ring, set with a large opal, surrounded by diamonds of a smaller size, but making a beautiful and glistening ornament. The ring was his mother's. It was left to him at her death, and ever since it fell to him he has had business troubles and general bad luck. He was talking about it one evening to my wife and myself. We all laughed, and she in a joking way said: 'Lend it to me for a week or two, and I will try my luck.' He consented and promised to call for the gem in three or four weeks.

"A few evenings after he had gone we were invited to play whist. My wife thought she would wear the big opal, and from that night began a series of misfortunes. In getting out of a carriage she tore her dress. At the whist table she hardly took a trick. Somebody changed hats with me in the dressing-room, and that the third had fallen down-stairs and received quite severe injuries. The next morning one of the servants left us. Money matters began to get involved with us. I could not get hold of enough money to meet pressing demands upon me, on account of being disappointed in payments that had been promised. One of our relatives died. Bills came in embarrassingly fast. Our water pipes got out of order, and all sorts of discouraging and unpleasant things have arisen to annoy us. At last my wife was taken sick, and while lying in bed she said: 'I really believe all this trouble we have had in the last four weeks has come about on account of that opal ring.'

"Last Saturday our friend came up to pass Sunday with us before his return to Mexico. We gave him his opal and told him our troubles. 'Well,' said he, 'I have had great luck in New York. Ever since I left here, four weeks ago, I have been making money. Everything I touched panned out large profits.' Then we all laughed and said, 'What nonsense!' but it certainly was very funny.

"On Monday he, with his opal, bade us good-by at 8 o'clock in the morning. Now watch what followed. At 8.30 the postman left a letter with a check in it for $50. At 10 o'clock I was paid $50 in cash, which I no more expected than I expected to be shot. Before night we had a new servant. The children and my wife all recovered from their indisposition, and our household matters began to run smoothly. On Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock another $50 in cash was handed to me unexpectedly and the same mail brought a check for $100 more. But the climax was reached when the evening mail brought a statement from a New York attorney that an estate had been divided up, and that my wife's portion of it was $16,200. Inclosed was a statement, also a receipt and all the papers to sign before a notary public. She signed the papers, and is going to New York to-day to get the funds. Now, I am not superstitious, but it certainly does look as if the opal had something to do with it. Don't you think so?"

About Gems.

The largest diamond in America is known as the Tiffany diamond. It belongs to Tiffany & Co., of Union Square, New York, is kept in one of their safes and shown to the public only on rare occasions. It weighs a trifle over 125 carats, while the Kohinoor weighs 103 1-16. The New York diamond is a magnificent yellow stone, found in one of South American mines about nine years ago, and Church, the artist, has described its peculiarly yellow brilliancy as a "sunburst." Still larger than this, and largest but one that is known in the world is the "Great White diamond," found in 1884 in South Africa. It weighs 180 carats. This is the stone which it was proposed to give to Queen Victoria on her jubilee, but the $600,000 then needed was not subscribed. Now the speculators owning it have raised the price to $1,000,000. It was not reported when found, but was smuggled out of the mines and to Cape Town. There it was sold for $95,00. In London it brought $225,000 when sold to speculators. It is cut as a brilliant and is the largest brilliant in the world. The color of diamonds, imparted no one knows how, has much to do with their value.

The Game of Succotash.

Most of our readers are, no doubt, familiar with the game of "buzz," and its more difficult companion, "buzz-fuzz." If not, a brief description will be a necessary introduction to our game of Succotash.

The players sit in a circle, and count around to the right 1, 2, 3, 4, etc. If the game is simply "buzz," each person who has to count seven, or a multiple of seven (14, 21, 28, etc.), or any number with seven in it (17, 27, 37, etc.), must say "buzz" instead of the number. Any one who forgets to say "buzz," or says it in the wrong place, is "out," and the rest go on until the superiority is settled.

"Buzz-fuzz" is more complicated. It differs from "buzz" in that five and all its multiples are called "fuzz." Thus 35 is "buzz-fuzz," and 57 "fuzz-buzz," etc.

Succotash consists in calling five in all its relations "beans," and seven under similar circumstances "corn." When the two come together, instead of saying "beans-corn," make the proper combination and say "succotash."

These three games afford a great deal of amusement, and require concentrated attention and quick thinking.

Habit of Punctuality.

It seems to me, however, this habit of dilatoriness could better be mastered in youth. Punctuality should be one of the virtues grounded into children while they are receiving their moral, intellectual and physical training. School teachers do attempt this for their own comfort and the discipline of their scholars, but the parents can begin to form the habit which will generally stick through life while yet their offspring is too young to come under the teacher's care.

Hours should be set for doing certain things about the house and children should be compelled to adhere closely to the rules. For instance, the hour for rising should be unalterably fixed; the little ones can be compelled to appear at the table promptly and to retire at a certain time. If this custom was established in every household there would be more promptness later on when these children must face the stern realities of life and when they will realize, too late, that "time and tide wait for no man." Then there would be less necessity for those ironclad rules which are now posted conspicuously in every great establishment and the infractions of which are visited with heavy fines."
